

Yuck!

Day

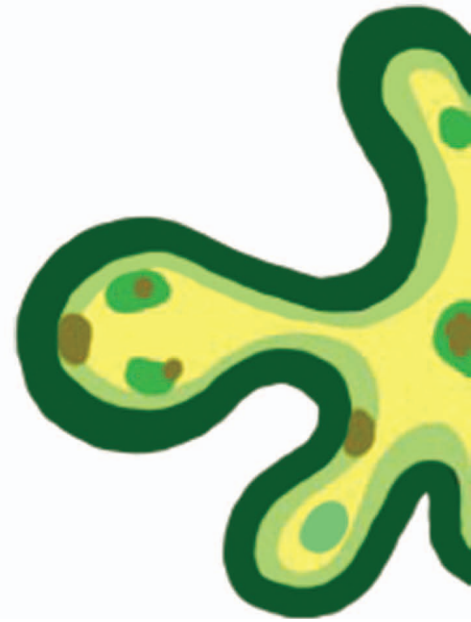

The only thing left to do now was to sleep and dream of great tasting tacos, so the boys set on a mission to do just that. But their nap would be short lived, because something disturbing began to fill the air. It was like a nasty mixture of gym socks, corn chips, farts, rotten food, garbage and skunks. The boys stood up from their sleeping bags as though they both seen a ghost!

“You passed gas!” Rufus screamed as he pointed at Clyde while holding his nose in disgust.

“No, it was you who passed gas!”
